Saturday 16 September, 3.30pm
Thin Sections, Department of Ultimology
Location: Regent House,
Trinity College Dublin and Online
The Department of Ultimology will present a talk titled Thin Sections that maps a range of visual and written resources where stones signify endings.
Referencing texts, folklore and artworks, this talk will introduce and frame a participatory workshop by Belgium-based artist Anaïs Chabeur.
This event is wheelchair accessible.

Saturday 16 September, 4.00pm
Tactile Encounter, Anaïs Chabeur
Location: Regent House, TCD
What if stones could serve as mediators to grief? Thanks to their great capacity to make us present to the transient quality of our human experience, minerals prove to be valuable companions in loss. This workshop offers a space of connection through touch where we will explore a listening kind of contact with a stone.
Participants will be invited to be attuned to how their body reacts to this encounter, and to what this shape asks of them. This event is wheelchair accessible.

Wednesday 20 September, 5pm
